Encephalartos discolor Encephalartos discolor, also known as the silky grass, is a species of plant in the grass family. It is native to Sudan, Somalia, Yemen, northern and central Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania, as well as to South Africa. This species of grass, though readily grown, can be difficult to buy and establish. It prefers moist, loose soil and can be quite shade tolerant. It does best in full sun, and in areas that are not too hot.

Conservation status It is classified as an endangered species due to population decline throughout its range. While the species is listed in a few protected areas in the United States, these areas are not fully protected, and recent population data indicate the species is limited to several patches. As of 2018, the species is listed as critically endangered in the IUCN Red List of Threatened Species, having been assessed as Endangered since 1996.
